Why should you take part?

We are returning for our fourth event on Tuesday 23rd May 2023, following the successful events held in 2020 - 2022.

This annual event is directly marketed and aimed at those within the Construction, Property, Heritage and Sustainability Industries across the East Midlands and its main aim is to connect businesses together within these industries, to ensure that they are accessible to businesses of all sizes and capacity.

We are continuing our working partnership with the Lincolnshire Chamber of Commerce to ensure that this annual event becomes the largest event in the East Midlands to support these industries for our growing economy.

Who are Archaeological Project Services?

Archaeological Project Services (APS) are a long established commercial archaeological practice offering a comprehensive range of consultancy and fieldwork services. Based in Heckington, Lincolnshire, we serve clients across the construction and development industries, public bodies and private individuals throughout the county. APS offer cost-effective, tailor made solutions to all archaeological and cultural heritage needs in the planning and development processes. Our highly experienced project management team will respond quickly to find the right solution for your project, from initial planning, through site investigation to mitigation and report publication.

Who are Heritage Lincolnshire?

Heritage Lincolnshire are a long established charitable organisation dedicated to preserving and developing historic buildings as well as engaging and benefitting the wider communities around them. We deliver a range of expert heritage consultancy services to the public and private sectors, communities and individuals throughout Lincolnshire and the wider East Midlands. Heritage Lincolnshire have a breadth of experience in developing successful funding bids for conservation projects, producing options appraisals and viability studies, in addition to providing effective and sustainable conservation plans. We also offer a range of services to enable you to engage and consult communities and the wider public, including activity statements and plans, national curriculum linked education and archaeology clubs for schools, as well as traditional building skills training. Our highly experienced project management team can provide you with bespoke support and services to fulfil the specific needs and requirements of your project.
