Bid Development and Writing

Heritage projects often depend on funding grants to finance a significant proportion of their plans. However, many organisations lack the expertise and capacity to develop and produce a success funding bid. Navigating, developing and writing funding bids can be a time-consuming and complex process with many funding bodies requiring business and activity plans. Heritage Lincolnshire have significant experience supporting groups with writing funding bids and guiding them through the different funding application processes. Over the years, we have successfully raised millions of pounds for heritage projects from a variety of different funding bodies.
